"HOME RULE" IN EDUCATION.

If there is one field of governmental activity that clearly should be within the control of local authorities it is public education. The case for local control is stronger in that department of governmental endeavor than in any other.

There is not the slightest question that public education can be managed successfully by local authorities working under powers granted by the states. The passion for improvement-it is no less -that appears in virtually all the American communities assures constant agitation for good schools Where sufficient wealth is available this agitation surely leads to progress, and the number of comfor good schools is lacking is rap- ing pages an aspect of "big busiidly decreasing.

TOO MANY LAWS:

Investigation by experts has not been necessary to prove to every body that laws and more laws do not check drime or lawlessness that is not exactly criminal in intent and purpose, but that is due, in a large measure, to the multiplicity of laws.

Many people violate laws they do_not know existt. Others violate laws of which they know full well. but which they do not respect therefore, feel they are justified in old fool, one doesn't hear so much violating. Whatever the condition under which laws are broken every day and night, more and more laws are being enacted and scarce ly any repealed. Law violations of every character are more numerous than in any time in the past. The increase in population has not been as rapid as the increase in Laws at the rate of 1,500 a year are, being enacted. And lawlessness steadily keeps pace with the law makers.

It is estimated that since the adoption of the Constitution of the United States the laws passed in this country have exceeded in number the total of all laws enacted for the government of mankind from the time of Adam to the inauguration of George Washingto Whether the calculator believed he was stating a fact or merely resorting to hyperbole, the comparlson admirably describes what seems to be a mania among legis- fault with high taxes.

$50-A-WEEK ADVERSITY.

Facts and figures do not seem o bear out the pessimistic observations of Professor Irving Fisher that 90 per cent of the American families are living on the ragged edge of adversity. This posibility is no more probable than that Ford and the Rockefellers stand in momentary danger of losing their millions.

Interpreting Professor Fisher's jeremaid for oneself, it is presumed he had in mind installment buying, living to the limit or a little beyond one's means and other socalled economic evils of the day. Like most economists he overlooks the benevolence and exage rates the remote dangers of modern economic trends.

New York City is not the whole United States, although New Yorkers sometime think so, yet it provides a case that can be cited to refute the sage of New Haven.

The late Fred L. Lavanburg set apart a sum of $750:000 to provide comfortable homes for families with weekly incomes of $25 or less Instead of turning away eligible tenants, the Lavanburg Founda tion has found it mecessary to increase the maximum income to $50 a week to fill apartments.

More graphs and diagrams will have to be produced by Professor Fisher before he can convince the American people that they are in such a bad way the wolf is camping on their door steps.

Many hundreds of people and stood with eagerly inclined ears anxious to catch and retain every word which came from the lips of E. Edison Beach as he spoke Sunday night to a crowd which by far overflowed the Calvary Baptist church.

In his introduction of the speakof the evening, Rev. Barney Calvary Thames, pastor of the Baptist church, read a letter of recommendation written by Dr. L. R.
